

Understanding Tonsil Health:

This photo reveals the intense inflammation seen in Chronic Follicular Tonsillitis. When tonsils become chronically inflamed, they develop deep crevices that can accumulate large amounts of pus and infection. Our team is dedicated to diagnosing and treating these complex conditions.

To observe World Hearing Day 2026, the ENT
Department
at MIMER Medical College initiated a community-focused campaign based on the WHO theme, 'From community to classroom.' On March 3rd, we trained our students and conducted free audiometry screenings for local families.
We further amplified this awareness by bringing hearing screening
and education directly to area school teachers and students.

Activities

The ENT Department is honored to share these certificates from ENTOD Pharma. This recognition celebrates the unwavering commitment and significant contribution of our entire faculty toward promoting healthy hearing for children during National Hearing Week 2.0 (March 3rd–9th, 2026).

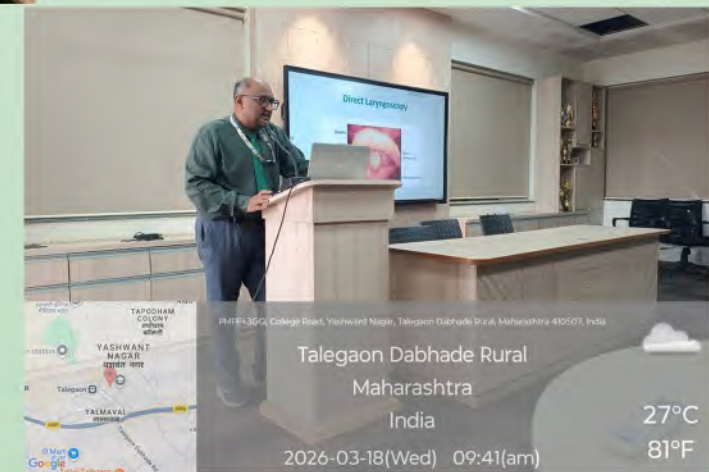

Marking World Hearing Day 2026, the ENT Department at MIMER Medical College took proactive steps to ensure hearing care for all children. Aligned with the WHO theme, ('From community to classroom'), we held a major awareness drive on March 3rd, where our medical and allied health students screened local communities for preventable hearing loss using free audiometry and tympanometry services. Our commitment continued by extending these vital screenings and educational sessions directly to school teachers and students.

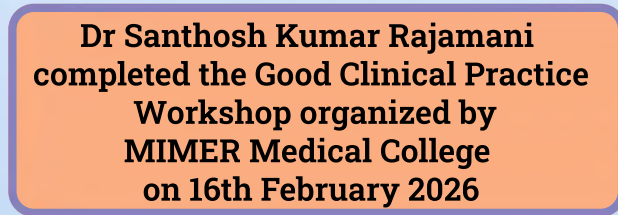

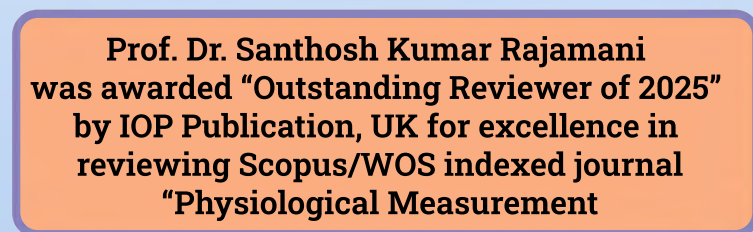

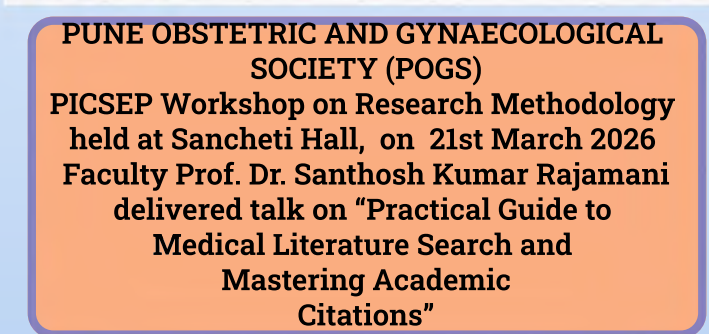

On March 18, 2026, departmental induction program was conducted for newly joined JR1 students as a part of "PARICHAY 2026" workshop.

As part of the 'Parichay 2026' orientation workshops for our incoming postgraduate cohort, Dr. Santhosh Kumar Rajamani delivered an essential session focused on the critical topic: 'Securing Difficult Airway'. The presentation took place on March 18th, 2026.
