7.	Brief summary of the event in around 100 words (purpose, conduct, feedback, impact, suggestions)	Communication skills are vital in obstetric practice but often neglected, leading to serious consequences for doctors. To emphasize their importance, Dr. Sudesh Doshi, a renowned gynecologist, delivered an online talk on Communication Skills in Obstetrics. He highlighted how effective communication and positive body language improve interactions with patients, their families, and the community. The session was attended online and also relayed in the departmental library for interns and postgraduate students. Dr. Doshi also answered related questions. Integrating communication skills training into obstetrics and gynecology education is essential for preparing competent healthcare professionals.
