Brief summary of the event in around 100 words (purpose, conduct, feedback, impact, suggestions etc.)	In celebration of International Kangaroo Care Awareness Day, the OBGY department hosted a health talk. Although Kangaroo Care is a crucial aspect of managing preterm and low birth weight infants and is routinely practiced in postnatal wards, we seized this opportunity to further raise awareness about its importance. Dr. Shreya Sambharam, Junior Resident, discussed the significance of Kangaroo Care for preterm and low-birth-weight infants. Dr. Pranali Ghuge, Assistant Professor, demonstrated the proper technique for Kangaroo Mother Care and highlighted its benefits. Dr. Vaishali Korde and Dr. Pawar addressed questions from patients, relatives, and students, emphasizing the advantages of this practice. The session effectively raised awareness about Kangaroo Care among patients, their families, and students, and was well-received by all attendees.
